Zeolite Skin Cream gets rid of Skin Cancers with no Pain or Scarring

One of the world's leading skin biophysicists, Dr. Pugliese, creates a state of the art zeolite skin cream

The first thing I ask about any product I investigate is what the ingredients are, and what they do. But I didn't know the ingredients in this skin cream other than they were natural and safe. I had been working on a spot of skin cancer on my face, was getting nowhere, so it was worth a try...

Now, of course, it's a different story. We know the ingredients, and we even know that the skin cream is used at some cancer clinics throughout the world. Safe, natural and effective, a winning combination.

Here's my situation when I got started.

A few weeks earlier my wife had finally threatened me enough to get me to go to the doctor to get a spot on my face looked at to see if it was cancer. It didn't take long. One look was enough. It was. Fortunately, just your typical, slow growing, not very dangerous type of skin cancer. The doc told me to make an appointment to get it taken off. I wasn't thrilled about that. Painful, leaves a scar, and costs more then I'd like to spend.

So, as I know a bit about cancer, I thought I'd first check out that black salve I had heard about for years. And I did. The results using it were impressive. It worked fast and got the job done. However, there were two major drawbacks in my mind.

1. It is painful.
2. It leaves a scar.

Well, it was my face, and would be my pain, so I decided to wait a bit and try some things on my own first. So I was dabbing away with this and that and getting nowhere, and things were starting to get warm. I could tell my wife was about ready to take me down to see that surgeon if that spot didn't start shrinking. So when someone mentioned Raspberry Skin Cream to me and how great it worked, I immediately got on the phone to learn more about it.

Bill told me that he had had a bit of skin cancer on a nipple, so he started putting it on that bump morning, noon and night. He has a device that measures the energetic level of a skin cancer. The higher the level, the more active the skin cancer was. I didn't know how that thing worked, but I could understand that the more active a skin cancer was, the higher the reading would be. Well, at least I was open to the concept.

As he was trying this out, Bill decided to measure his skin cancer's energy level. The energy level was 80 the day he started putting Zeolite Skin Cream on the cancer. The very next day that cancer's energy level was down to 30. And the day after it measured 0, zip, no more energy in that cancer. Who knows if that device really works? I don't. But two weeks later his cancer dropped off, so I knew the cream worked.

Another man he knew tried it out on a spot on his back the size of a silver dollar and about 1/4 inch thick. After a few weeks of using Zeolite Skin Cream, his skin cancer was down to the size of a fifty cent piece and only 1/8 inch thick. I asked him how it worked on serious melanomas. He said people were seeing improvement in those cases too, but it was too early to tell if it would take care of them on its own...

(Of course, you wouldn't want to fight a melanoma only using a cream. After all, it is in your body, and you need to hit it with nutrients internally too.)

Zeolite Skin Cream ingredients are at the cutting edge of effectiveness and safety.
Within a week or two of using Zeolite Skin Cream, I could see my skin cancer starting to shrink. And it continued to shrink until it eventually went away. I am quite pleased. It is not fast as it took months for my particular spot to disappear. But... No pain. No scarring.

I did learn something about how to take it. Rub it in several times a day. Works faster than the dabbing on I was doing at first. Now I’m using it on several possible precancerous spots that have been coming out on my face and it is working well on those too.

From my experience and from what I have heard, it works very well on precancerous spots, moles, and most any skin condition. My mother uses it as a face cream as it has done a great job on her wrinkles.

Testimonies From Satisfied Users

"This product is amazing! I had what my dermatologist called, a "picker" on my scalp. No matter what she did (froze it, put cream on it), it would always come back since my hand would gravitate to that spot. Since using your zeolite cream, it has disappeared! I am going to bring this to her office and let her know what a great product this is! Thanks!" Kathy R.

"I usually have a visceral feeling about a product before I purchase it so am prepared for it to work in advance. I did a lot of research and when I found your Zeolite Creme and it's reported results I had that feeling. I am happy to say I was not wrong. It worked! I had two mysterious 'lumps' on my arm and chest, the one on my arm was an age spot that had turned red and swollen. I began the application as soon as the product arrived and have been using it three or four times a day since. The small lump on my chest disappeared within two weeks, the age spot on my arm has taken the entire month to reduce from the size of a small marble (maybe 12 centimeters) to no lump and just a dry flaky surface. I am really amazed and feel these spots are like a barometer for the aging condition. I am 64 and a healthy vegetarian for 14 years, these spots alarmed me and I am keeping watch."

"Just a note to tell you how fabulous your zeolite cream is. I am 56 years old and have noticed small warts, red spots and dry precancerous areas on my face. After using this product, within three weeks these areas are clear. I shared half the jar with my father, who HAD a dark pea-sized cancerous spot on his cheek for about five years. The dark scab is gone and the area is clearing. This product is wonderful and I wanted to share that with you. Thank you."

"Your creme has seemingly taken the skin cancer off my nose, layer by layer. Can I use this also as a preventative?" Christine S. (Yes you can.)

"So I have used your cream and have had good results with it, I have had a clean face for 5 months. So far it working. My wife is using it now too. If we have a mark or pimple or something, we put it on, I use it every day, covering my face where I have had trouble. It worked. We would clear up and all's good. Thank you." John W.

"This will be the second jar of this cream that I've purchased, and the reason I'm getting another jar is because I've been pleased with the results so far. It would take too much time and space to tell you in detail about the conditions that I've been treating with this cream, but I've had a number of different kinds of skin eruptions/rashes/growths. The cream seems to be helping to diminish the size of nearly every one of them, and I'm hoping it will eliminate them altogether by the time I finish with the second jar. Blessings to you for producing and making available this product." Dolores W.

If you have a serious skin cancer, do more than just rubbing the cream on the cancer day and night. And you could certainly decide to do more even if you have a slow growing skin cancer.

"I have been taking an assortment of your drugs for 5 weeks now and when I went for my check-last week my surgeon was amazed. I have had skin cancer - malignant melanoma - for 13 years and just in the last 6 months have had over 18 lumps removed from my left thigh. Since my last op. in March this year when I had 7 lumps removed I had got another 3 lumps and decided that I needed to do something other than surgery before my next check-up. I ordered various treatments from you and took several at therapeutic levels and when I saw my surgeon this week all 3 lumps have gone!! Praise the Lord. All my surgeon could say was 'whatever it is you are doing, just keep on doing it''

And don't forget, if your skin cancer or melanoma is serious, you need to be taking other products internally to support your body's fight against cancer.

By the way, if you know anyone using tanning beds you might want to let them know they are increasing their risk of getting the most serious skin cancer...

According to an Oct. 15 Associated Press article, an 8-year study of more than 100,000 Scandinavian women between 30 and 50 yielded an undeniable correlation between regular artificial tanning and the incidence of melanoma. Among the studies' shocking (to the medical establishment, not me) findings were these:

- Women over 30 who salon-tanned once a month or more increased their risk of developing melanoma by 55%.
- Women under 30 who UV-baked once monthly saw their likelihood of developing melanoma skyrocket by approximately 150%!
- The risks were identical for women of similar age regardless of hair color - a factor some in the mainstream deem significant in determining melanoma risk.
